

BROOKLYN NEWS.

WAS YOUNG FOX MURDERED?

Section and Harmony Now the nature of the Brooklyn G. O. P.

Elephant Deserter for the Demo- cratic Band-Wagon.

The unanimous opinion to-day of the members of the Republican party in Brooklyn is that the Kings County G. O. P. cannot prosper unless it has a elephant on its hands.

This conclusion is the result of the discussion at last night's meeting of the party. Another noticeable feature was the haste shown by the party-holders in falling off the bandwagon and getting into the democratic bandwagon.

At the meeting, which was held at the headquarters of the party, the members of the party, who were present, were all in favor of the bandwagon. The members of the

DR. BARLOW AFTER HIS WIFE.

He Starts for Montreal Where

The Body to Be Disinterred at Bal- timore and Reburied.

City Works Inspector Daniel Fox, of Brooklyn, whose son, Daniel Fox, Jr., was found dead under suspicious circumstances on Miller's Island, Chesapeake Bay, believes that the young man was the victim of oyster pirates.

Young Fox's body was found on March 11, but his identity was not established until the other day, when Coroner Cook discovered two letters in the clothing addressed to Daniel Fox by Miss Nellie Roden, of Brooklyn.

Andrew Fox, the dead man's brother, who was found at their home, 495 Fifth avenue, said to an "Evening World" reporter to-day:

"I believe that my brother was shang-haied by oyster pirates and carried off to Chesapeake Bay and murdered," said Mr. Fox.

"I am only twenty-two years old.
He was formerly employed on Long Island, but was discharged and came home early in October. He used to have a friend, who was a sailor, and who he always told him he could make lots of money if he could get out of the city."

"I heard nothing more of him until he came home, and we received a letter from him, dated Nov. 5, telling us to write him in care of Streven & Wacker, ship chandlers, Chester street, Baltimore."

SIXTH AVENUE AND 23D STREET.

LOADED DOWN WITH SILVER.

Henry Einstein's Robber Held in $5,000 for Trial.

Kevan, the Thief, Said to Be a Policeman's Brother.

William Kevan, who, when arrested, said his name was Einstein, and that he lived at 215 East Fifth street, was today held by Justice McMahon in the Yorkville Police Court in $5,000 bonds for trial in General Sessions on a charge of grand larceny.

Kevan, who is a good-looking young fellow, neatly dressed, and with a self-possession and a calmness of manner that was very surprising, was taken away with $100 worth of silver belonging to Mr. Henry Einstein, of 44 West Fifth street, brother of last year's lie-publican candidate for Mayor.

Kevan was discovered under the plano in the parlor by Mr. Einstein's seventeen-year-old son Louis, who, with rare presence of mind, called the thief by his object was to make him think that she was insane.

Dr. Barlow said that he had learned that the thief had been in the city before leaving. He blames his mother-in-law, Mrs. Dr. Forbes, of 1147 Hancock street, for the trouble.

The Mayor said that he found a few streets that were very dirty, but the general condition of the streets, he thought, was very much improved.
